Football season is drawing to a close soon, with only two games left in the regular season. Seniors are looking back over their football career, and sharing highlights and favorite memories. Chase Wallace began playing in the third grade, and enjoys seeing his team win. "I like being competitive, and the atmosphere is great when playing football," said Wallace. He remembers a pass in his sophomore year to older brother Will, which is either the first or perhaps second time in school history that has occurred (the Weatherford brothers 'may' have in the early 70's, but no one can remember that far back to verify). Wallace plans to earn a degree in physical therapy at the University of Memphis.

Mason Harrison began playing football in second grade. He enjoys hitting, catching the ball, and scoring touchdowns, which includes his favorite memory of that first touchdown in high school. Harrison plans to follow in his father's footsteps and become an electrical lineman after graduation.

Cole Miller has been playing since he was eight years old, and has always enjoyed playing. His favorite memory comes at the end of practice, when the coach asks if he can make a field goal from a certain spot on the field. "If I make it, then we don't have to run, and I get up there and kick it and make it most of the time," said Miller. He hopes to continue playing in college, though he hasn't decided where yet. Miller plans to major in computer science.

Josiah Sanders, playing since the seventh grade, enjoys the excitement of the game and winning. His favorite memory was of their undefeated season in middle school. Sanders plans to enter the music industry as a producer in the future.

Vennie White began playing at nine, and enjoys catching the ball, knowing he can make plays for himself and his teammates. White scored 22 touchdowns one year in peewee football, a feat he fondly remembers. He would like to play for Memphis after graduation, and will join either the Army or Navy.

The remaining seniors are Will Kennedy, Stephen Wilbanks, Michael Gibbons, Will Jones, Na'Sir Ellis, Ronnie Kinkennon, Kylin Wynn, Carson Kennedy, Beau Barnes and Grant McMahan.

School Clean-Up Day

Saturday, October 21
8:00 am - 12:00 pm

We want to make our school look the best it can for our upcoming AdvancedEd visit in November. All students, faculty, parents and community are invited to show up so we can clean up!

For more information on how you can get involved, email Jamie King at kingj18@mcnairy.org or contact Jonathan Mehr at 645-3226.

The MCHS Class of 2016 will order invitations, caps and gowns and graduation accessories during lunch Oct. 25
