National Technical Honor Society Induction

NTHS Inductees for the Class of 2018: Benny Amaya (Health Sciences), Grady Matthews (Collision Repair), Emily Hamm (Family & Consumer Sciences), Aaron White (Carpentry), Mary Grace Hunter (Information Systems), Tyler Johnson (Engineering), Jamie King (Marketing), Wesley Ferguson (Agriculture), Maggie Holmes (Family & Consumer Science), Clint Isbell (Agriculture) and Matthew Ashe (Information Systems).

The McNairy County National Technical Honor Society inducted 24 new members on October 31 at the McNairy County Ag Building.

NTHS is an honor organization that recognizes student achievement in the Career-Technical fields.

Founded in 1984, the NTHS strives to endorse several key initiatives:

- To reward excellence in workforce education
- To develop self-esteem,

pride and encourage students to reach for higher levels of achievement

- To promote business & industry's critical work-place values of honesty, responsibility, initiative, teamwork, productivity, leadership and citizenship
- To help schools build and maintain effective partnerships with local business and industry
- To champion a stronger, more positive image for workforce education in America.

The organization expects their members to embody the key attributes of Knowledge, Skill, Honesty, Service, Responsibility, Scholarship, Citizenship and Leadership.

The McNairy County chapter is comprised of students from both high schools. NTHS is the ONLY club at either school that students cannot apply for membership; they can only be recommended for membership by a faculty member. Each CTE teacher recommends one student who has concentrated in and excelled in their field.

At the conclusion of the joint ceremony, new members are asked to recite the club pledge:

As a member of the National Technical Honor Society, I pledge to maintain the highest standard of personal conduct. I will apply myself to continue a record of scholastic achievement, and I will strive for excel-
